

Carlos Ariel Amoedo

Born in Mendoza Argentina, Ariel studied clarinet in a local music institute from the age of 14. At 18 he embarked on studying for a music degree in Clarinet at the National University of Cuyo and from there he began to play the Saxophone under the instruction of Ricardo Guiñazú with whom he studied Jazz and improvisation. In Mendoza, Ariel played with numerous bands participating in blues and music festivals both locally and also Melipilla in Chile, whilst also spent some time working as a session musician. At 23 Ariel met his wife and moved to Spain where he spent several years bringing Jazz music to the bars and restaurants of the Costa tropical in Granada. Whilst there he also had the opportunity to share a stage with the likes of Paul Lockey (The Foundations), Ian Heron (sound technician to Sting), Derek Austin and Paul Carrack (Mike + the Mechanics) and also spent time working on a project with Patricia Ann Cole, known professionally as PP Arnold, (vocalist, and previously a backing singer for Tina Turner).

Ariel moved to the Isle of Man in 2015 and is delighted to have embarked on his first residential project here at Coast Bar and Brasserie.

Enjoy the evening.
